1
			125 225
		CONF IDENTIAL
		CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
		INFORMATION REPORT	25
	COUNTRY	USSR
1	SUBJECT	Reported Manufacture of Radio-Sondes at the
	3003231	Sverdlovsk Factory of Meteorological Apparatus.	ŀ
		DATE DISTR. 4 MAY 1933	7
		NO. OF PAGES 1
L		THIS DOCUMENT CONTAINS INFORMATION AFFECTING THE NATIONAL DEFENSE.
		NATO TRA. OF THE U.S. CODE. AS AMERGED. IT A TRANSMISSION ON NEWSCOOL OF THE U.S. CONTENTS TO ON RECEIPT OF AN UNCANTROLIZED FRANCH IS
		TH'S IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION REPORT NO.	r'
		IH.2 12 OKEAMEDNIES IN SIMMAN	25
	SOURCE		25
		"The Synthloysk Factory of Meteorological Apparatus in Sverdlovsk is
		1. "The Sve-Allovsk Factory of Meteorological Apparatus in Sverdlovsk is manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological apparatus for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological product for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological production of the Soviet Army Artillery. The for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5.
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus carried	• manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological properties for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them.
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an experience of the supporting balloon and a 1.5 km apparatus box containing	, manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological properties for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological meteorological meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity.
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph	•
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers."
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meter army Artillery. The for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers."
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers."
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meter army Artillery. The for the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological apparatus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers."
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological transfor the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological appartus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers." - end - LIBRARY SUBJECT & AREA CODES
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological transfor the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological appartus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers." - end - LIBRARY SUBJECT & AREA CODES
		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological transfor the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological appartus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers." - end - LIBRARY SUBJECT & AREA CODES
1		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological transfor the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological appartus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers." - end - LIBRARY SUBJECT & AREA CODES
1		manufacturing radio-sondes and associated meteorological transfor the Meteorological Service of the Soviet Army Artillery. The types of radio-sondes manufactured are Kasatkin's, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5. 2. "These various sondes are all constructed alike. Only the size of the supporting balloons and the amount of meteorological appartus cus carried differentiate them. 3. "Radio-sonde No. 3 is for altitudes up to 15 kms. It consists of an hydrogen-filled rubber balloon and a 1.5 kg apparatus box containing the radio transmitter and instruments for recording altitude, air pressure, temperature and humidity. 4. "The indications of the instruments are transmitted by Morse signals. They are received on the ground by ordinary radio receivers or graph recording receivers." - end - LIBRARY SUBJECT & AREA CODES

This sport is for the use within the USA of the Intelligence components of the Departments or This stport is for the use within the USA of the Intelligence components of the Departments or Agencies indicated above. It is not to be transmitted overseas without the concurrence of the Agencies indicated above. It is not to be transmitted overseas without the concurrence of the Agencies indicated above. It is not to be transmitted overseas without the concurrence of the Agencies indicated above. It is not to be transmitted overseas without the concurrence of the Agencies indicated above. It is not to be transmitted overseas without the concurrence of the Agencies indicated above.